

An Ambitious Curriculum at Crossflatts Primary School

Our ambitious curriculum recognises the entitlement of world class provision for all of our children regardless of their starting point. At Crossflatts Primary School, we have the same academic, technical or vocational ambitions for almost all learners. Where this is not practical – for example, for some learners with high levels of SEND – our curriculum is designed to be ambitious and to meet their needs and promote progress in the subject regardless.

Our curriculum is well sequenced and builds upon prior learning with careful consideration, whilst valuing both skills and knowledge within the subject to foster both proficiency and an enjoyment of the subject.

Our children use rich, varied subject specific vocabulary to further their own understanding within each subject and this is promoted by all staff.

Expectations of all pupils are high as we continue to develop our methods and techniques through working with subject experts and providing our children and teachers with world class resources. Teachers are experts and know how to further the skills and knowledge for all children irrelevant of the starting point. Subject leaders work with experts in their field to further their knowledge in leading the subject to ensure we are accessing the cutting edge of latest practice and utilising modern thinking and research as fully as possible to further our children's proficiency in the subject.

Our curriculum goes above and beyond the requirements of the national curriculum through promoting experiences to further our children's experiences in school. We draw links between the curriculum subjects frequently and apply our learning to real world contexts. Our curriculum is a vehicle to further ambition and future interests in the years to come; as a family we allow our children to flourish and fly!
